

Anthony Albanese came from public housing and a single parent to become Prime Minister.

Lewis Freer took a single issue he felt strongly about, the 50 cent swing, and motivated an electorate to vote for him in his campaign to not bolt it to the ground. He became the youngest Councillor ever elected in Geraldton.

These people dared to dream, to stand up to adversity and for an issue. I have done that along with others over the past 3 years.

The coercion of employees to undertake an involuntary physical interaction in the workplace is not acceptable.

If elected I will strongly oppose the future mandating of Council employees or contractors to receive a mandatory medical procedure to keep their employment.

No person or elected official should denigrate or belittle people for their personal choices.

Making personal attacks on any minority group, in the media or especially on social media should not occur, and accountability should be expected in the Mayoral position.

Should I be elected as Mayor, I will not be compromised or prioritise any other tenure, position, employment or Lodge.

I believe that allowing business contacts made through council interactions to develop into personal relationships is against the council code of conduct and I will not allow that in my tenure as Mayor if elected.

I have no such personal or business connections that would allow my decision making in the position of Mayor to be swayed.

I will not be externally influenced on proposals to Council, or allow inappropriate offers of gifts, to influence my decisions.

I will not be taking any trips to China while the election campaign for Mayor is being held.

Personal Integrity is everything when representing the City of Greater Geraldton, in my opinion.

It is time for change for the good of Geraldton, and the way we are perceived transparently, by others.

I would urge voter's to consider all fresh candidates for Mayor.
